

GUIDE

6 New Burgers to Try Right Now

By James Mulcahy
October 23, 2013

If a new restaurant opens in New York and it doesn't have a burger, does it make a sound? Let's face it - we're all burger obsessives, so we've rounded up some of the city's best new additions to keep you full (for a second, at least). From breakfast patties to a better version of fast food, click through the slide show to see the latest burgers you need to try.

Photo by: Gabi Porter

Meatball Shop UES' Brunch Burger

The Meatball Shop's recently opened an Upper East Side branch, and it's the only one that serves brunch, so that's where to score this hangover-busting snack. It's actually made with meatballs - they're stacked on top of bacon and topped with a fried egg. The only bad news? This location's just as crowded as all the rest, so you'll probably have to wait a little bit before you dig in.