

EATERWIRE WILLIAMSBURG SOHO LOWER EAST SIDE

Back Forty West's Cassoulet Festival; Mayanoki Sushi Pop-up at Brooklyn Oenology

by Cynthia Correa Feb 19, 2015, 6:06p

f SHARE (5) TWEET (3)

Also, The Meatball Shop is added to Caviar's delivery list and Brooklyn Brewery hosts a fundraiser for cancer research.

SOHO — Back Forty West is hosting its annual Cassoulet Festival on the evening of March 1. Five different chefs including Prosen's Sara Jenkins and Peter Lipson from Northern Spy, will be dishing up their versions of cassoulet paired with French wines. The \$65 ticket cover food and wine (tax and gratuity are extra). [EaterWire]

WILLIAMSBURG — Brooklyn Oenology will be hosting Mayanoki's sushi pop-up on February 25th and 26th, as well as March 18th and 19th. The omakase-style dinner, offered for \$75 per person, will focus on local and sustainably sourced fish. [EaterWire]

LOWER EAST SIDE — Food delivery service Caviar is now bringing meatballs from The Meatball Shop to addresses in Manhattan and Brooklyn. [EaterWire]

WILLIAMSBURG — Brooklyn Brewery will host Fuck Cancer's North Brooklyn Restaurant and Bar Tasting Event on March 11. The fundraiser will include food and drinks from spots like Challah Food Truck, The Meat Hook, The Bedford, and more. There will also be a silent auction. Advanced $50 tickets can be purchased through fuckcancer.bpt.me or guests can buy tickets at the door for $65. More information can be found by visiting fuckcancerbk.tumblr.com. [EaterWire]