

Chefs Talk Cheap Eats

Salaries in the restaurant world can be as paltry as some of the portions on the plate, which means every chef is bound to have an arsenal of go-to cheap-eats selections for whatever cuisine they're craving. We asked notable names from around the country to share some of their top picks for wallet-friendly eats, which included everything from a taco truck to falafel to a steal of a lunch prix fixe.

Daniel Holzman (The Meatball Shop): "Perhaps the single best dish available in LA is the ceviche tostada that's $1.50 from La Isla Bonita, the taco truck parked on Rose at Third in Venice."
