

Your Search for Recession Proof Career Ends Here,
We Have Already Hacked It for You!

There exist different traditions, cultures, and practices surrounding people across the world. The vast majority of population in developing countries enjoys close-knit, more often joint family cultures. Permanent jobs in both government and private sectors jobs give them a life-long security.

There is no such luxury afforded the employees in developed countries. Hourly pay is the norm and majority of the jobs are transitory. There are large numbers of employees that work two, sometimes three jobs, as the hours available in one job do not offer them enough money to make a comfortable living.

The above trend of ‘hours worked and wages paid’ has started gaining ground in the developing nations as well, but not at that fast a pace though. However, there is a much bigger danger looming large on the workplace everywhere, all across the globe.

Our growing dependence on, combined with the rampant growth of, the Internet has brought us to a challenging situation where ‘Connectivity’ is slowly taking over control of our lives. You have every reason not to believe me but closing your eyes will not change the reality.

Two of the biggest catalysts to this change, besides the Internet, are the Smart Phone and the Smart Sensors. While the phone has already become an inseparable part of our daily lives, the sensors are entering every piece of equipment we use.

While on the one hand these changes will take away majority of the traditional jobs, the exact same technology shall also bring us hordes of new openings that are hard to imagine for the uninformed.

Latest reports indicate massive job losses hanging over our heads like the Damocles’ Sword. When it might hit is only a matter of time. However, the changing scene of ‘disruptive technology’ has also brought us huge blessings in the guise of high paying career opportunities. To avail of the same, we need to retrain and reinvent ourselves.

The jobs, where human interaction is a norm, have already started to evaporate. The new career choices offer multiple rewards in terms of longevity, high income, flexible schedule, as well as universal appeal. Once you have grasped the same, the entire world becomes your oyster. You will be empowered to break the shackles of a 9 to 5 office worker and earn your living from anywhere. You could be sitting on the beach with nothing but a smart phone and collaborating on a project in real time, with other staff members in different Continents.

Welcome to the world of ‘Career Hacks,’ where you will walk away with

- The power to look beyond the obvious
- The insights into high-paying career choices
- The info on related study & training programs
- The skills to navigate through the maze of ‘Connectivity’
- The foresight to determine your next career move per choice
- The confidence and the capability to pursue ever higher opportunities
- The power to say goodbye to the J.O.B. conundrum and be on your own

We (includes myself and my TEAM of dedicated researchers: Together Everybody Makes Money or Together Everyone Achieves More, take your pick) could go on and on but suffice it to say, we are ONLY a channel to guide you, short of an institution for advanced technical learning. At the same time, we also assure you, with absolute trust and goodwill, that our coaching will empower you to open the doors to vast resources of future growth, your Career Growth!