

THE LOOP

Categories ▾

Recent Posts ▾

Yesterday 12:58PM ET

PGA CHAMPIONSHIP

These dishes created by world-class chefs and inspired by holes at Whistling Straits will make you really hungry

By Patrick Kiernan

With the PGA Championship beginning on Thursday, a few world-class chefs have added golf to their zest, creating dishes inspired by holes at this year's venue, Whistling Straits. In April, the PGA of America and Bon Appétit teamed up for the "Champions of the Course" program, offering tips from golf professionals, as well as cooking inspiration from chefs based on golf. The program culminates at the PGA Championship with a number of original recipes and ideas based on the holes and design of Whistling Straits.

Grilled Mini Chicken Balls and White Bean Salad with Mint, Watercress & Oven Dried Tomatoes, by Michael Chernow & Daniel Holzman

When it comes to an "endless bite," these two chose a dish that can continually be made by growing fresh herbs to spice up one's meal. The herbs in this dish are seemingly endless, ranging from parsley to fennel, and from thyme sprigs to garlic cloves. These add for a fantastic bite to the already delicious chicken meatballs. Also, apple cider vinaigrette is a great dressing for this dish.

