

artnet® news

Events and Parties

Editors' Picks: 22 Events for Your Art Calendar This Week, From the Inaugural Show at Duane Thomas Gallery to New York City Trivia Night

Plus, Bosco Sodi has a splendid new installation in Brooklyn and Peter Freeman gallery promises a curious exhibition.

Artnet News, October 12, 2020

Saturday, October 17–Saturday, February 14, 2021

Sky Hopinka, The foothold held fast as our toes ached and the salty water sloughed away skin and left bone to be ground to dust and sand. There's only rocks and seagulls here though, steadfast against the sound of water trickling over and again with each push and pull of the tide, or some kind of wake(2020) from the "Breathing" series. Photo courtesy of CCS Bard.

16. "Sky Hopinka: Centers of Somewhere" at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, New York

Indigenous artist and filmmaker Sky Hopinka gets his first institutional solo show, curated by Lauren Cornell and highlighting his work with the near-extinct Native American language chinuk wawa. His films include an experimental documentary about the Standing Rock protests and Here you are before the trees, a newly commissioned multi-channel work that teases out connections between indigenous communities in New York's Hudson Valley region and Hopinka's native Wisconsin, such as the forced relocation of the Stockbridge Munsee Band of Mohican Indians from New York to Wisconsin. Programming includes a free virtual talk on this local history next Monday, October 19, at 5 p.m. Heather Bruegl, director of cultural affairs at the Stockbridge Munsee Community.

Location: Hessel Museum of Art, Bard College, 33 Garden Road, Annandale-on-Hudson, New York

Price: Free with timed reservation

Time: Thursday–Sunday, 12 p.m.–5 p.m.

—Sarah Cascone