Humboldt & Jackson Opens; Meatball Shop's Ice Cart

Friday, July 11, 2014, by Devra Ferst

WILLIAMSBURG —

Humboldt & Jackson, the all-American bar and event space from Bill Reed of The Brooklyn Star is opening tonight with a live jazz show. The wine and beer list is exclusively American including wine bottles from Arizona, Virginia,

California, New York and Maryland. The menu is made up of small snack plates created by a rotating list chefs like Brendon Doyle of Pork Slope. Treats from Momofuku Milk Bar and root beer floats will be available for dessert. [EaterWire]

UPPER WEST SIDE — The Meatball Shop opens its sixth location on Monday at 81st and Amsterdam. The shop will feature an ice cream cart carrying house-made ice cream sandwiches in flavors like sour cherry lambic and sweet corn served between dark chocolate fudge and hazelnut snickerdoodle cookies. Every 100th sandwich will contain a Wonka-style golden ticket redeemable for a variety of prizes like a meatball cooking class with co-owner Daniel Holtzman. [EaterWire]

WEST VILLAGE — The first 500 customers at Crif Dog's newest spot this Sunday will get free dogs and the 100th customer will be gifted one of the shop's collectable skateboards. [EaterWire]

WISCONSIN — Eight years ago when Jonny Hunter wanted to study butchery, there wasn't much information available. Now, he's a master. Hunter, along with his partners at the Underground Food Collective in Wisconsin, is sharing that knowledge by creating "an open-source document that they hope will smooth the way for fellow salami producers to become USDA-certified meat processors."
