Beyond the Book

A podcast series on the business of writing and publishing

At London, The Next Wave in OA Is Author Services on APRIL 13, 2016 in EVENTS, INTERNATIONAL

In 2016, the challenge for scholarly publishing is less about access for articles and more than ever about success for authors, individually and collaboratively.

Yesterday at the London Book Fair, editors and executives from traditional publishers and innovative start-ups shared insights on the opportunities opening up for journals to offer value-added services to their author communities.

Author services

But academics and experts are dependent on Middlemen: no direct collaboration & less affordable services

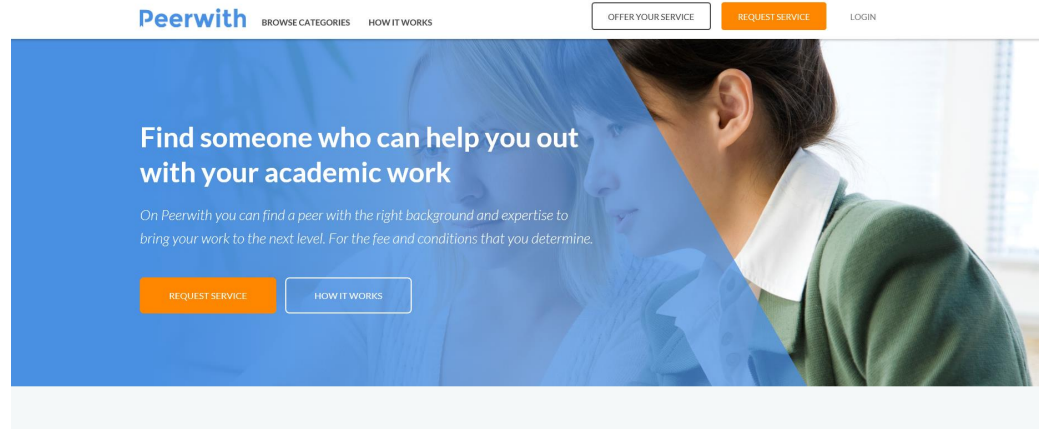

Peerwith

Peerwith is a peer-to-peer platform, allowing academics to find, select, and directly collaborate with experts in a variety to author services
