

The Wandering Eater

Choice Eats 2012

March 14th, 2012 |

Last night was the 5t Annual Choice Eats 2012 with over fifty NYC-based restaurants picked by The Village Voice food critics Robert Sietsema, Lauren Shockey (who will leave her position this week) and the staff of Fork in the Road. Like last year, it's packed, both people and food. If you did attend, you are bound to be eating at least an entire day's worth of calories and then some. (As I'm typing this post, I'm not remotely hungry and just drinking my morning manual drip cups of coffee.) Some restaurants are familiar faces (e.g. The Meatball Shop, Spicy Bampa, etc.) but a majority were different than last year.

So, here's a couple of highlights of what I ate last night: