

FEATURE

Ultimate NYC Super Bowl Takeout Guide

By Zagat Staff
January 27, 2014

There's only one week left until the Seahawks and the Broncos battle it out in New Jersey's MetLife Stadium, which means that from now until February 2, NYC will be packed with droves of ticket-holding tourists. We've already put together some of the best places to watch - or avoid watching - the game here. But if you just want to stay at home, we've listed some of the most delicious game-day take-out options we found this side of the Hudson. We're talking Pok Pok's addictive fish-sauce wings and glazed Dr. Pepper lamb ribs from Momofuku Ma Pêche. Sound good so far? Then keep reading. - Jasmin Sun

Photo by: Gabi Porter

WEST VILLAGE

Barrio

Game-Day Package: Feed a group of eight to 10 game-watchers with truffle-spiked spinach and artichoke dip, wood-fired wings, barbecue sliders, chips and chipotle-tamarind guacamole for $220.

Ordering Tips: E-mail orders to superbowl@barrio47.com by 4 PM on January 31. \(212\) 255-3900

El Toro Blanco

Game-Day Package: Order fresh housemade guacamole ($18), empanadas ($3/each), tacos al pastor ($4/each) and more à la carte from their Mexican-inspired Super Bowl take-away menu.

Ordering Tips: Orders must be placed by phone, or by e-mailing vincent@eltoroblanconyc.com by January 31 at 3 PM. \(212\) 645-0193

The Meatball Shop

Game-Day Package: The Bucket O' Balls ($45) is back. Fill each pail of 25 meatballs with their classic beef, chicken, spicy pork or vegetarian balls, along with choice of sauce. Want meatballs but don't want to miss out on hot-wings flavor? Their famous Buffalo chicken meatballs with blue cheese dressing are also available.

Ordering Tips: All preorders must be placed by January 31. \(212\) 982-7815

Rosemary's

Game-Day Package: Their game-day package serves eight to 10 and includes espresso-glazed ribs, smoked lamb-shoulder sliders, cured meat-and-cheese plates and more for $250.

Ordering Tips: Large preorders must be placed by January 31. For those hosting smaller parties, the restaurant is also offering regular delivery on game day via Seamless. \(212\) 647-1818