

BLOGS
THE FEED
EATING AND DRINKING

The Feed openings: The Meatball Shop in Williamsburg and more

Posted in The Feed by Mari Uyehara on Jul 11, 2011 at 9:12am

Categories
The Feed Blog

Keywords
508 GastroBrewery, bars, Charles Grossman Cafe, Coleur Cafe, fairway market, Gimme! Coffee, Hachember, new this week, People's Pops Pop-up Shop, Perfect Picnic, restaurants, Sa Aming Nayan, the meatball shop

Like

Spicy pork meatball hero at the Meatball Shop

Photograph: Jolie Ruben

The following venues are expected to open by July 20. Always call ahead, as openings can be delayed.

The Meatball Shop Meatball maestros Michael Chernow and Daniel Holzman will take their Food & Drink Award-winning fare to Williamsburg July 13 or 14. You can choose from the same mix-and-match menu of meatballs, sauces and sides as at the Lower East Side original. Everything—including the daily market specials and artisanal ice-cream sandwiches—is made with superlative ingredients, like Seven Stars Farm dairy and Creekstone Farms beef at both locations. But this new space, decorated with the familiar communal wood tables and white subway tiling, has almost twice as much seating, along with a six-foot-long skylight. Also new to this spot: a full liquor license. Like the bill of fare, the customizable cocktail grid lets drinkers check off a spirit (vodka, gin, tequila, rum, whiskey) and a fresh house-made mixer, such as pink grapefruit juice and muddled cherry, or smoky orange bitters and vermouth. If you'd prefer to skip the decision-making, try the rum "Fool Aid" punch or a Jell-O shot. 170 Bedford Ave between North 7th and 8th Sts, Williamsburg, Brooklyn (718-551-0520)