THE COLLECTIONS

Carl and Marilyn Thoma have been collecting art since 1975. They believe passionately in the power of art to enrich life and to deepen understanding of the cultures, places, and times of which we are a part. In 1986, the Thomases established a family foundation to fulfill their broad passion for philanthropy. Inspired to make contributions with wide-ranging yet personal impact, in 2014, the Thomases went on to create the Carl & Marilyn Thoma Art Foundation to distinguish their initiatives in, and support of, visual art. As their collections have evolved, they have contributed increasingly with their personal involvement and financial support to the development of exhibitions, symposia, and publications, the formation of fellowships and awards, and the endowment of professorial chairs and curatorial positions. The Deputy Director will, among other responsibilities, oversee the foundation's non-digital collections which include Post-War Abstract Painting and Art of the Spanish Americas.

Post-War Abstract Painting. The Thoma Collection of Abstract Painting highlights new forms of color-based abstraction developed in the late 1950s and 60s in response to Abstract Expressionism. 73 artists and 162 works associated with terms like Color Field, Post-Painterly Abstraction, Hard-Edge, Finish Fetish, Washington Color School, Perceptual Abstraction, Op Art, and Minimalism define this historically significant collection.

Art of the Spanish Americas. The collection of Spanish Colonial or Art of the Spanish Americas art numbers more than 130 works from the 17th–19th centuries, principally paintings from South America. The collection includes religious themes and portraits from the Viceroyalty of Peru. Upwards of 50% of the works are on loan to various museums to include the AIC, The Met, HFA, and Blanton. Several exhibitions are in the planning phase. The foundation continues to collect, and the collection is believed to be the largest in private hands. Eventually the collection will be donated to museums in the Americas. The paintings are mostly acquired in Spain so travel to Spain take place a couple times a year. Conservation is part of any acquisition. Active interface with museums and travel to South America annually to research and promote the collection is critical. Additional scholarship, documentation, organization, and thoughts on disposition is needed as well. At any one time there are always several paintings under study and consideration for purchase.
