

Page Six®

Wilde for meat

A very pregnant Olivia Wilde must have had a real craving for meatballs. The actress was seen waiting patiently in line for a table at the Meatball Shop in the West Village with two friends last week. "She waited for at least 45 minutes to an hour like everyone else there who was dying [for a table]," our spy reports. "But she didn't seem to mind the wait. It looked like she was having a fun girls' night out with her two friends." Wilde, who's expecting a child with Jason Sudeikis, was bundled in a military-style peacoat.