

FOUNDATION DIRECTOR AND HEAD OF PHILANTHROPY
ARES CHARITABLE FOUNDATION
Culver City, California/New York, New York

The Aspen Leadership Group is proud to partner with Ares Management and the Ares Charitable Foundation (the “Foundation”) in the search for a Foundation Director and Head of Philanthropy. The successful candidate will serve as the first and founding Director of the Foundation.

Ares Management Corporation recently established the Ares Charitable Foundation, an independent 501(c)(3) public charitable organization, in order to align its investment activities with its philanthropic initiatives and provide a more coordinated and impactful giving structure. The Foundation is committed to supporting current and future generations by dedicating financial and human capital principally towards the promotion of education, including financial literacy, entrepreneurship, and job training programs. The Foundation believes that by partnering with other qualifying nonprofit organizations that support these initiatives it will have the ability to enhance the educational opportunities for the underserved, inspire and support entrepreneurs, and promote non-traditional job training opportunities. In addition to generating job growth, these initiatives will benefit communities worldwide.

The Foundation will also serve as a vehicle to enable select giving opportunities in connection with significant local and global crises (e.g., public health crises, natural disasters, etc.) as such events arise and are approved by the Grant Approval Committee. For example, the Foundation has already provided funding to several hospital groups in Los Angeles, New York, and London, in response to the COVID-19 crisis.

Ares Charitable Foundation is governed by a Board of Directors, a Grant Approval Committee (“GAC”), and a Grant Review and Diligence Committee (“GRDC”). The GRDC consists of four sub-committees reflecting the global geography and principal offices of Ares Management Corporation. Each sub-committee will be comprised of teams reflecting the diversity of the company. The Foundation will operate on an “endowment” basis such that a portion of the Foundation’s funds will be donated to programs each year with the balance held for growth and, as needed, for interim grants.

REPORTING RELATIONSHIPS

The Foundation Director will report to Jessica Dosen, Global Head of Human Resources, and will work closely with the Foundation's Board of Directors.

A NOTE FROM THE ARES TEAM

With $155 billion of assets under management and over 1,350 employees located around the globe, we at Ares recognize our responsibility to drive a positive impact through our investing and corporate sustainability practices with recent events further entrenching this belief. One of the key components of our impact approach is volunteerism and philanthropy in our local communities. While Ares has formalized and successfully operated these programs for nearly a decade, we are excited to now further extend our efforts and drive even more positive impact in the communities in which we operate.

In an effort to further align our investment activities with our philanthropic initiatives and provide a more coordinated and impactful giving structure, we have established the Ares Charitable Foundation (the "Foundation"). Our Foundation will be funded through a pledge of Ares' earnings as well as by employee financial commitments on an ongoing basis and will focus on providing grants to programs that support education, entrepreneurship, and job training. We believe that these programs not only support job growth and a prosperous middle class, but aid in providing equitable education opportunities to disadvantaged communities.

We are seeking a Foundation Director and Head of Philanthropy to join our team to lead the development and ongoing operations of the Ares Charitable Foundation, leading Ares into the next phase of its philanthropic journey. In addition to the Foundation, the person in this role will also oversee all other aspects of Ares' philanthropic efforts including Ares volunteerism, corporate matching, and corporate sponsorship programs. Ares prides itself on its collaborative, entrepreneurial, and inclusive culture, and we believe the Foundation will be a beacon of these values. The person who assumes the Foundation Director and Head of Philanthropy role will interact with an engaged group of Ares employees from around the world from the initial launch of the Foundation through grant-making, providing an opportunity to build something from the ground up and leave a legacy that will extend beyond the time dedicated to the position. The person in this role will also serve as a leader and coach to Ares employees with limited philanthropic experience, thereby helping others to cultivate and develop key philanthropic skillsets around sourcing and vetting grantees as well as measuring impact. We view our firm and employee's financial and time commitments to the Foundation as innovative in our industry, and a testament that we can build a giving vehicle that can amplify its positive impact over the years to come under the right leadership. We are seeking a candidate who is equally as excited as our team in achieving Ares' mission of creating lasting impact in our companies and communities.

PRIMARY RESPONSIBILITIES

The Foundation Director and Head of Philanthropy will

- oversee all philanthropic efforts for the Firm including the Foundation as well as the employee volunteerism, corporate matching, and corporate sponsorship programs;
- set philanthropic goals and strategies that align with Ares Management Corporation and Ares Charitable Foundation's objectives and create measurable impact;
- serve as a key spokesperson and representative of Ares Charitable Foundation's philanthropic and grantmaking activities, internally and externally;

- work closely with the board in establishing processes and policies that create immediate impact while positioning the Foundation for growth and setting the vision for future projects;
- work in partnership with the GAC and GRDC subcommittees to educate members on the grantmaking, diligence, and impact assessment process;
- scout for grantmaking opportunities in promising new and existing programs;
- create and maintain strategic partnerships with grantees and potential grantees;
- establish viable contacts and facilitate relationship-building between internal and external stakeholders;
- build and maintain a cooperative network of counterparts, including heads of other corporate foundations, to gather information and share ideas and potentially collaborate on impactful community projects;
- raise internal and external awareness about the work and impact of the Foundation as well as Ares' broader philanthropic efforts through "Ares in Motion";
- engage and motivate employees to participate in the Firm's philanthropy efforts in general and specifically the Foundation's work, as donors and, where applicable, as volunteers; and
- track and measure inputs, outputs, and impacts of programs.
